

Art Camp

Art Camp is a great week for everyone who likes to experiment with multiple types of art. Monday and Tuesday the campers will go to Diablo Glass in Roxbury, Massachusetts. This state of the art glass studio will provide the campers with two art glass – glass fusion and glassblowing. The campers will be split into two groups and they will be able to switch and complete both projects. The classes will take about 2 hours to complete and then the campers will return to camp to participate in some fun activities at camp. On Wednesday the group will go to Paint Party in Windham, New Hampshire where they will be led through a canvas painting project. Once the project is complete the group will go to Griffin Park in Windham to play some games and eat lunch. Thursday will be spent completing a pottery project. This project will take some extra time to dry, so arrangements can be made to get the projects to you the next week. Finally, on Friday the campers will go to the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston where they will explore the exhibits and participate in a scavenger hunt led by the museum staff. This should be a great week of skill building for the campers, and I am sure they will have a blast completing the projects. Please pack a lunch all week as there will not be options to buy lunches this week. Also, please pack a bathing suit so that the campers can swim at camp when they return.
